Supreme Court—or Supreme Torque?

Good morning.

We are continuing our meditation on the crisis with the Supreme Court and the tremendous woe it can spread around the country, the entire country around the topic of abortion, but of course with deep implications around other topics of privacy that we thought are settled in law, such as gay marriage, and many other issues.

So I propose today, "Supreme Court, or Supreme Torque?" and point out that this power language of torque is in fact, about about torture, and it's about twisting; it comes from the French word for twisting, are we busy twisting the law to satisfy a few politically driven Supreme Court judges?

What I'd like to do with you is to share a poem, I guess it could be called rap, about the situation we find ourselves in today, since the news broke a couple of days ago, above the upcoming decision we are expecting from this once-Supreme Court.

Women: Watch your backs.
The political hacks in a Supreme Court stacked are spreading the flack of misogyny, not democracy, or theocracy, in ideology,
and religion trumping democracy.
Look and see
Opus Dei
you can feel it and smell it in Supreme Court corridors.
It ushers in odors
rendering fascism in fashion again,
where will it end?
...Where will it end?
Clarence Thomas and Ginny too who love the sick January 6 insurrection embarking on a dangerous direction.
Five justices,
two accused of
sexual misconduct,
conducted leadership in the Supreme Court
selling privacy short

...selling privacy short,
breaking 49 years of legal precedent rending the High Court bent out of shape and beyond repair.
They've instructed
every citizen of the USA that they, they and local political nobodies can make up laws
full of flaws,
telling women they sin
and what to do with their bodies.
Judges and other religious cracks in league with political hacks, swimming in dark money
the same court approved, disbanding voter rights as best they can Flim Flam.
Women and men
Watch your backs.
Be on the guard for political quacks and judicial hacks.
Wolves in sheep's clothing,
servants of autocracy,
with a loathing for real democracy.

Amen.

Thank you. We'll see you tomorrow.
